Of the attendees that completed the post-conference survey:

- 100% found that the conference aligned with their professional interests.
- 100% said they would attend the conference again.
- 98% found the conference a good opportunity to make professional connections.

“I thoroughly enjoyed it and would love to attend future conferences. In my line of work, we deal with victims of DV and I found the information provided to be very impactful and educational.”

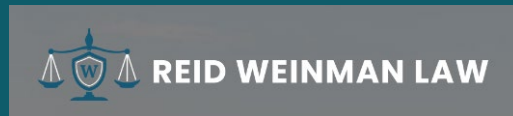

“The personal stories shared by presenters, while difficult, made them more credible. The stories bring it home. The audience needs to feel/understand the pain that survivors go through in addition to the mindset behind the choices and complexity of these relationships.”
